From Editor's Desk

Dear Readers, Greetings!

We are happy to release the IJFCM April – June 2025 Volume-12, 2nd issue, packed with innovative articles like Health status assessment of children studying in the Government School, Legal Implications in Clinical Trials for Cancer in India: A Comprehensive Analysis of Regulatory and Ethical Challenges, and many more.

It is my pleasure to share with all that the Indian Journal of Forensic and Community Medicine is recently been listed in the prestigious "SCOPUS" indexing, which is much awaited milestone achievement for our Journal, and I am pleased to report that IJFCM's citations and downloads have exceeded previous milestones.

I am grateful to all members of the editorial board and the reviewers for their careful attention, as they consistently oversee the process until the manuscript is published.

I also extend my thanks to all subscribers, supporters, and authors for contributing their exceptional original research to IJFCM.

The IJFCM consistently follows ethical standards related to research publication and does not compromise on publication quality. Occasionally, manuscripts are rejected because they are outside the goals and scope of IJFCM.

Given that IJFCM encompasses a broad range of research areas within Community Medicine, Public Health, and Forensic Medicine, authors are encouraged to begin drafting their manuscripts across various categories such as Original Articles, Review Articles, Letters to the Editor, Short Communications, Case Series, Case Reports, Book Reviews, and Viewpoints, among others.

All authors are encouraged to share their publication links with peers and both national and international groups in Community & Forensic Medicine to enhance the citation rates of their published articles.

I request all faculty from the Medical Education Unit, members of the library purchase committee, and educators to support our journal by subscribing to it in the Medical College libraries.

Finally, I sincerely thank our dedicated publication team for their swift online processing and efficient communication with the corresponding authors and reviewers.

Wishing you all a very Happy Learning!
